NATIONAL YOUTH DAY

12th JAN 2022

HANSIKA SIRISINAGANDLA

CHANNELING YOUTH POWER FOR NATIONAL BUILDING

Youth power is a well-known force in today's globe. The kids are filled with boundless energy and lofty goals. Any nation may use them as both a productive and a destructive force. Any country's youth are a valuable asset. They are the country's future and represent it at every level. You might not realise that youth has a greater impact on the formation of a country than you think. In other words, the youth's brains and hard work will lead the country to success. The young, like every other citizen, bear equal responsibility. They are the foundation of a country.

Youth is vital because they will be our future. They are vivacious and eager. They are able to learn and adapt to their surroundings. Similarly, they are eager to learn and use what they have learned in order to attain their objectives. Youth is a time when revolutionary ideas emerge, and these ideas affect the society we live in. A current and appropriate example is Bill Gates, the founder of Microsoft Corporation. He had a revolutionary notion, which he put into action to bring about change in the world today. Our young people have the potential to bring about social transformation and betterment in society. The country cannot thrive without the youth. Youth is required in all fields. We must educate every kid about their power and the role they can play in the country's development.

There are several ways in which we may assist our country's youth in reaching their full potential. To that end, the government must implement programmes to combat challenges like unemployment, inferior educational institutions, and others, allowing them to thrive without interference. Similarly, we must ensure that our young people are encouraged to excel in all areas. When we consistently discourage and do not believe in our youth, they lose their zeal. We must all work together to ensure that they are given the wind behind their wings in order to soar high, rather than pulling them down by attaching chains to their wings. Furthermore, equal opportunities must be offered to all, regardless of caste, creed, gender, ethnicity, religion, or any other factor. There are several cases of nepotism and favouritism that are eroding the country's true talent. This must be eliminated as quickly as possible. We must ensure that every young person has the opportunity to prove themselves worthy, and this opportunity must be made available to all.

In conclusion, our youth have the potential to build a nation, and we must provide them with the means to do so. They are the future, and they have the perspective that previous generations did not have. Their fervour and enthusiasm must be appropriately channelled in order for a nation to thrive and flourish.
