Anchoring combines traditional news anchoring with social media engagement, allowing news anchors to interact directly with audiences on platforms like Twitter, Instagram, and Facebook. This approach enhances real-time updates, increases audience engagement, and allows for personalized content. Students observed that SOC-Anchoring broadens the reach of news, making it accessible to a wider audience. However, it presents challenges such as misinformation, the overload of information, and the potential for biased reporting. Students highlighted the importance of maintaining credibility and professionalism in this evolving media landscape to ensure accurate and reliable news delivery.
